DESCRIPTION

Day 1 – Speak to lead

Department-wise, topics will be given to the participants. The topic will be related to a particular field that is of national importance. The participants will be given a time limit of 2 minutes to think and will have to press the buzzer to start. Each person can talk for a maximum of 1.5 minutes. If any other member finds a point to speak for/against the first person, he/she can press the buzzer. If the point is not relevant, 20 seconds of their time to speak will be deducted. The participant who has spoken the longest at the end of the event wins. He/she who wins gets an advantage in the second round.

The second round is a paper presentation round. One paper will be sent to the participant and 45 minutes of preparation time will be given for them to prepare slides. The participants must concisely present the paper within 5 slides.

Day 2 – Model G20

There will be 5 teams selected from each school on Day 1. Each team will be given a chance to choose a country that they will be representing on the second day. On the second day, all the teams will have to speak up for their country on the fixed agenda. Based on the agendas, the teams will take turns speaking up for their country's status, upcoming changes, and future advancements. This will include topics/agendas from all the departments.
